Currently, Dr. Rüdiger Krech is the Director of the Department of Ethics and Social Determinants of Health at the World Health Organization.

Before he held this position, Dr. Krech lead the German International Cooperation’s work on social protection from the Headquarters in India and Germany. Dr. Krech has also held various management positions at the WHO Regional Office for Europe in Copenhagen in the fields of health systems, health policies and health promotion because of his firm foundation in public health.