Introduction

The World Federation of Public Health Associations in collaboration with Public Health Association of Australia (PHAA) organized the Job Share Program was held in Australia from 10th February to 24th March 2014.

There is global evidence of the widening gaps, within and between countries, in income levels, opportunities, health status, life expectancy and access to care. The 2012 World Congress on Public Health focused on global progress in achieving equity, as well as the opportunities and threats to such progress. The final Addis Ababa Declaration recommitted the World Federation of Public Health Associations to strive for greater equity between and within countries in health outcomes, access to health care, and those social, economic and political factors that drive health inequities.

Goal and Aims of Programme

The primary intended goal of the Job Share Program, the WFPHA supports associations in developing or strengthening the skills necessary to promote public health locally and worldwide, as well as in setting up global partnerships, through the exchange of capabilities and knowledge among public health professionals from different countries.

The main aims of this project were:

1. Get “younger” public health associations in contact with established public health associations to promote their respective public health work;
2. Facilitate and improve communication between global public health associations;
3. Develop partnerships and practices that will positively affect and improve public health;
4. Document success or challenges that could serve as a learning tool for all Public Health Associations.

Nomination and Selection

Nepal Public Health Association (NEPHA) officially nominated to Binod Regmi from central committee decision as representative participant delegate for announced job share programme and Chinese Preventive Medicine Association officially nominated to Heya Yi from as per the information. Finally the WFPHA and PHAA were selected to both of us for such a grand job share programme as first graduate.

Conclusion

The job share programme is good enough to learn about the public health system in others countries (Primarily Australia of us). Such activities could generate ambition to public health association on collaboration and coordination and we feel that the job share programme successfully able to add one goldmine activities on this. Basically the job share programme quite beneficial to learn about the networking, coordination skill, documentation and media communication, resource generation, approach of public health promotion of PHAA, its international linkage, resource generation process, monitoring and evaluation and community involvement activities.

Such learning activities is remarkably good learning about the public health system of developed world and able to provide the insight to some change in public health system in participants and that could be interchangeable.

Acquiring experiences could be transferable in our own countries context with some modification as per necessary. Public health priority, government policy and health system including resources available is vast contrast as compared to Nepalese and Chinese system. But there is so many things that could be need to implement in Nepal and China to promote the public health and association.

The involvement of more other national level public health association of other countries would be necessary for create more opportunity. So motivation and networking activities are further necessary to increase involvement of associations to host fellowship may be in specific area or in holistic area.
Recommendation

We feel that this is very good and innovative action in inter exchange of public health information of different countries. Beside this, we have snap of simple recommendation are as follows for further novelty in similar kind of programme.

For WFPHA

- Since the establishment of WFPHA has increased their contributions markedly in professionalism, capacity building and networking. The job share programme of one of the landmark along others. So regularity continuation of such programme is highly necessary in coming days.
- The programme name as WFPHA fellowship in........ (May be job share or public health or other specific issue) would be more appreciative than only job share programme for career future of organization and individual participant too.
- The tracking of change in their association and public health development after completion of their participant countries would be better for impact of fellowship

For the Host Organization

- Combination of field based activities participation with theoretical thought would be more appreciative to learn practically.
- Host need give more effort to preparedness of organization is admiring to give multifarious knowledge through policy advocacy and lobbying related organization, programme implementation organization, Government, community lead organization, fund and resource management activities and professionalism related organization would be better for fellowship.
- The time duration of fellowship programme make flexible to coincide with the objectives, activities and outputs would be indebted.
- The proper coordination with placement organization, more articulacy of hauling and community behavior would help to make better aspiration

For the candidate (Participant organization)

- The forthcoming selection of candidate have composite experiences of academic and organization management would be better for both development of association and public health development for changing knowledge into measurable effect.
- The selection of participant of their organization would give more intensify the continuation of participants in coming years in respective association.
